Seventy-five instiutions were represented. Edwin S. funt of Waterbury presided. The prin-cipal topics of discussion were the eports of the committee on revision of investment laws as applied to sav-ings institutions and on laws govern-ing the examination of savings banks. Concerning the charges in the law regarding examination, it is proposed that no officer or director of a sav-ings bank is to be permitted to be a borrower or surety for a borrower of any of its loans. Instead of two examinations each year as at present one examination will be required as in the states of New York and Massachusetts. The principal changes aside from these are a proposed increase in salary of the bank commissioners. Commissioners are to have full power to or-der forms of accounting, power to em-ploy appraisers on real estate owned by or under mortgage to the bank, and to enjoin any bank against pay-ing out funds or receiving deposits when it is, in their opinion, necessary to preserve assets or protect depos-
